Ingredients:

- 8 cups of bread, cubed (1 17oz white loaf of Heaven's Gluten-Free bread)
  - original recipe recommends toasting bread or cutting and leaving out for a day to dry out
  - skip this step because (1) gluten free bread is already pretty dry and (2) tofu crumbles don't have extra moisture/grease so we're already adding moisture with broth
- tofu crumbles
  - 1 pack tofu (14-16oz)
  - 2 TBSP tamari/soy sauce
  - 1 tsp smoked paprika
  - 1 tsp garlic powder
  - 1 tsp fennel (seed or ground)
  - 0.5 tsp onion powder
  - 2 tsp oregano
  - 0.25 tsp red pepper flakes or cayenne (omit or add more depending on desired spice level)
- 1 cup onion, diced
- 1.5 cup celery, diced
- 1 tsp sage (3tsp/1TBSP if fresh)
- 1.5 tsp thyme (4.5tsp/1.5TBSP if fresh)
- 1 cup butter (2 sticks, I like melt organic)
- 2 tsp salt

Directions

Prep

Bake

- cover with aluminum foil

Marinate Tofu

- in the morning, press and cut into cubes

- let marinate for 6-8 hours
- freezing then thawing tofu will remove additional moisture, giving the tofu a more spongy texture and will soak up more flavor

Saute Tofu

- after pan & oil is heated, add tofu to pan
- stir until sides are lightly golden

Pistachio Cookies

Servings	Time	Source
6 cookies	30 min	unconventional baker, unconventionalbaker.com/gluten-free-vegan-pistachio-cookies

Ingredients:

- 3 TBSP raw pistachios, peeled
- 6 TBSP white rice flour
- 2 TBSP dark maple syrup
- 2 TBSP smooth and creamy natural cashew butter
- ¼ almond extract
- ⅛ tsp salt

Directions

- Pre-heat oven to 350F. Line a small cookie sheet with parchment paper. Set aside.
- Briefly process the pistachios for the coating in your food processor to form little crushed pieces. Remove the chopped pistachios from the processor and place them in a shallow bowl. Set aside. (Don't worry if you have tiny bits or pistachio dust left behind in the food processor).
- Process all cookie ingredients in the food processor until the mixture begins to form a ball. Remove this ball from the processor and shape into a ball* of dough with your hands.
- Divide this mixture into 6 balls of dough. Roll each one first into a ball, then flatten with your fingers to form a little "hockey puck" shape. Roll one of these bits of dough in the crushed pistachios, first just running the sides of the cookie over the pistachios and then only the top part of the cookie – you'll need to press the dough into the pistachios very lightly as you go to make the pistachio pieces stick (note: if you press too hard you, the shape of your cookie can become distorted). Place the crusted cookie on the prepared baking tray. Repeat with the remaining cookies.
- Bake in a pre-heated oven for approx. 9 mins. Remove from the oven and place on a cooking rack to cool off a little. Enjoy!

*The texture of the dough can be different depending on the cashew butter used. For example sometimes you might get a batch that's more "oily" other times one that's more dry + brands vary, etc. The dough should be soft and pliable. But if the mixture feels too sticky at this point, add a bit more flour (1 teaspoon at a time) and process again to incorporate; if too dry, add a bit more maple syrup or cashew butter.
